

English

2006

Creative Writing 5R

A Poem about Feelings

I'm as happy as a rabbit with a tasty carrot to munch,
I'm as happy as an elephant in a river squirting mud,
I'm as lonely as a shark in a sea with no meat,
I'm as sad as a squirrel without its nut to munch,
I'm as unhappy as a snail that's lost its trail to mark its way,
I'm as happy as a tiger in a huge, huge cave,
I'm as sad as a bird without any eggs to lay,
I'm as lonely as an eagle with no wings to wave.

Edward Mannion

A Poem about Feelings

I'm as happy as a turtle with a cold patch of sea weed,
I'm as happy as a dog in a new loving home,
I'm as happy as a swan in a nest without his mate,
I'm as sad as a Chinese monkey without its lovely hot spring,
I'm as unhappy as a monkey that's lost its tail,
I'm as happy as a pig in a lovely pool of mud,
I'm as sad as a hyena that cannot laugh,
I'm as lonely as a zebra without its stripes.

Angus Begg

A Poem about Feelings

I'm as happy as a tiger with a slab of meat to tear,
I'm as happy as a bear in an underground lair,
I'm as lonely as a rabbit in an evil trap,
I'm as sad as an eagle without its wings to flap,
I'm as unhappy as a mother in a squelchy muddy tub,
I'm as sad as a bear with a chain on its nose,
I'm as lonely as a seal in a circus doing a pose.

Gemma Taylor

Haikus

Death

People filled the graveyard
In the coffin lay the dead
Everyone was black

Georgia Rowe

Skill

What are you good at?
Can you run, jump, swim or fly?
Just give it a try.

Ben Crisford

Embarrassment

People laugh at him
His cheeks, roiling red with shame
As he shuffled out

Imogen Canetty-Clarke

Cinquains

Shark

Swimming
The beast moves on
Looking, sniffing around
Killing everything in its path
Blood, death.

Charlie Harris

Dreams

Sleepy
To doze I fall
Fly the world, of slumber
Voices violently fill the room
I wake

Imogen Canetty-Clarke

Poppies

Thy bloom
In Flanders Field,
They sway in the light breeze,
Red like blood for what they grew for,
Strange, sad.

Georgia Rowe

Acrostic Name Poem

Great character
Enthusiastic in all she does
Modest and kind
Many smiles upon her face
A fantastic friend

Gemma Taylor